

This is not a luxury Whisky

Limited Edition
Blended Scotch Whisky

This is not a luxury whisky. Or is it?

The inspiration for this limited release is René Magritte's 1929 work "Ceci n'est pas une pipe", a Surrealist painting which challenges peoples' perceptions of reality.

The reality is, these days we hear more and more commentators talking about 'luxury' whiskies, which are presumably whiskies that are either rare or expensive, or, possibly, both.

On one level, similar to the role Magritte's painting played in the art world, this release is about getting people to consider for themselves what a 'luxury' whisky is.

On another level, a level we consider much more important, this limited release is about the liquid. This is about the whisky in the bottle, which we have painstakingly sourced and blended, and the engagement and enjoyment and pleasure this whisky will bring when shared with others.

This latter point is what we believe a 'luxury' whisky is. And at Compass Box, this is what we believe whisky, generally speaking, is all about.

Availability

Limited Edition release of 4,992 bottles.
Bottled in August 2015.

Flavour Descriptors

Complex, rich, lightly smoky and opulent. Sultanas, sweet sherry and concentrated floral notes combine with deep demerara sweetness, cacao and lighter creamy coconut character. An inviting nose, fat and full-bodied on the palate with a long, lingering sweet-smoke finish.

Recommendations

This particular luxury has been designed to be consumed, not preserved on a shelf. Use it to celebrate life's little victories – a new job, a chance meeting with a friend, the conclusion of an enjoyable dinner. Above all else, share and enjoy.
